The will of Leopold Perutz, filed in the Surrogates' Court yesterday, is filled with advice to his son, Constantine, and his daughter, Mariana, seventeen and fourteen years old, respectively, as to their future conduct, urging that they respect and cherish their mother, that they live as "faithful and for honest American citizens," that they live up to the traditions of Judaism. Mr. Perutz, a Bohemian, died on July 17 at his residence at 101 West Seventy-leghth Street.

Mr. Perutz requested that his son and daughter cultivate the Czech landing and circumstances permit. "I desire my family to maintain the traditions of our forefathers for centuries past for honest and straight dealing," wrote the testator. "None of our ancestors ever testator. "None of our ancestors ever ligion of Judaism and that it is my intense desire that they should remember that they have grown up in the religion of Judaism and that it is my intense desire that they should continue to live to the principles of an enlightened and self-conscious Judaism."

Mr. Perutz also wrote in his will:

"To "I cannot impress with sufficient earnestness upon my children the magnitude of love and respect they owe their mother, my beloved wife. Above all things it is my desire that my daugh their lives, and I ask them to remember that only by observing this course of their lives, and I ask them to remember that only by observing this course of conduct toward their mother will they honer my memory."

To his wife, Mrs. Helene Perutz, the decedent bequeathed all of his estate outright with the exception of his library, musical publications, old documents, autographs and heirlooms, which Mrs. Perutz is to have during her life. Upon the death of Mrs. Perutz the books and other publications go to the daughter, while the son, in accordance with a family tradition, is to receive the documents and heirlooms, to be passed on and kept as a family record.
